Urban Agriculture

Urban Agriculture (UA) is a system of producing, processing and distribution of food (may include non-food items, such as flowers) in the space available in urban areas using available resources. The main benefit of urban agriculture is its contribution to food security. It aims at local food production in cities and surrounding areas to cater primarily to the needs of city dwellers. UA increases the availability and accessibility to food. The food being adequate is also nutritious, safe and produced in an environmentally sustainable manner. It is acceptable to the people as it is being produced by them. The low wage earners find it difficult to buy nutritious food from the market but can find that nutrition, in the food they grow themselves. Nutritious food would provide them with good health and the energy.

Women empowerment is another important benefit, as UA has high women involvement. UA promotes inclusiveness, people-to-people interaction and thus, security. Another benefit of UA is the way it connects people with their food by creating awareness about the food production system. It has a number of environmental benefits: It provides habitat for urban wildlife and conserves biodiversity. It reduces the heat island effect of cities, reduces average temperature and contributes to climate change mitigation by minimizing the use of fossil fuels by avoiding the transportation of food. It also uses greywater, wastewater as well as bio-solids and other organic waste, thereby helping in waste management.

UA has been practiced in many Indian cities for a long time especially in cities like Pune, Hyderabad, Mumbai, and Bangalore. However, it is still ridden with reluctance from a large section of people due to lack of knowledge and skills for better farming practices and absence of conducive government policies. There is yet a silver lining. Many government agencies in India have started taking active interest to overcome the problems associated with Urban Agriculture.

Active cooperation from the governments is essential for its growth and the contribution of UA to 'sustainable development'. There is an urgent need for conducive government policies. While most of the interventions are carried out at local level, the state and central governments must formulate favourable policies/regulations and support the local governments with financial allocations.

Recently, the Govt. of India has launched a number of schemes for peri-urban vegetable production. Working groups on horticulture constituted by Planning Commission have advocated for focused attention to the production of fruits and vegetables. A national dialogue organized jointly by National Horticulture Board (NHB) and Indian Institute of Horticultural Research (IIHR) encouraged maximum land utilization, interior and exterior landscaping, and vertical garden, terrace cultivation of fruits and vegetables and mushroom culture. The National Academy of Agricultural Sciences (NAAS) organized a brainstorming session on 'Urban and Peri-urban Agriculture for Policy Framework' in April, 2012.

Considering the fact that more than 30% population of India lives in urban areas and this percentage is expected to grow further in the coming years, there is no denying the fact that this will result in an increased demand for food items for people living in the urban areas. Traditionally, fruits, vegetables, milk, etc. for the urbanites come from the adjoining rural areas; however, a part of the demand can be catered by urban and peri-urban agriculture, given that there is a proper government support system and availability of skilled entrepreneurs.

Summer Internship Experience

MANAGE continued its trend of excellent Summer Placements for 2012-14 batch. The Summer Internship is a two month programme included in the course curriculum that provides students with the first-hand experience of the industry and brings in real time learning. Students got an opportunity to intern at premier organizations that are big names in the field of Agri-business and Allied sectors. Here are the experiences of some of the interns.

Experience of BASE programme at BASF India Ltd. was really enlightening. Great thing about the organization is its good corporate culture. Here, I had the freedom of using my own research methodology to get to the final outcome of the project and this is a unique trait I must say. I experienced a mixed feel of field exposure and corporate life. I was on a live project in Himachal Pradesh on 'Perception and Usage Pattern of a Particular Fungicide by Apple Growers'. I interacted with orchardists who had a great experience about how and when to use fungicides to get better harvest from their orchards. It was brilliant onfield learning and it is a great organization to work with.

- Aditya Kumar Narayan Intern at BASF India Ltd.

Summer Internship being the first step of a management graduate into the world of corporates and practical learning proved to be 100% true for me. Working as a summer intern with Cadbury Mondelēz International was a lifetime opportunity. Mine was a live project on Supply Chain function titled 'Taming the Tail- Deep Dive in Edible Chemical Sourcing' was a strategic project involving interaction with suppliers, production and R&D team. It involved studying the market scenario of Vitamins, Minerals and Hydrocolloids- their existing supplier base, current price trend, also benchmarking the buying process with other companies and accordingly suggesting a buying strategy. The company culture is one of its kind and the internship programme is highly valued. It was a real 60 days of mental and physical workout that provided great learning.

- Arushi Badola Intern at Cadbury Mondelez International

Yes Bank gave me the excellent opportunity to experience the first time industrial interface. My project titled "Post Disbursement Survey for Farmer financing and other PSL Structures (Pool Buy Outs)" included farmer financing, dealer financing and other bank products in which I dealt with big farmers and fertilizer dealers of Uttar Pradesh and Uttarakhand. This journey of two months filled me with immense practical learning about banking sector and professional life. My field visits were too extensive but with the support of my mentor I made it possible. Overall I must say that the summer internship changed my level of thinking about the professional life.

- Deen Dyal Intern at Yes Bank

Summer Internship Experience

Working with a TATA Enterprise as a summer intern gave me a great exposure about business environment and corporate life. I visited Odisha and 4 states of North Eastern Region of India during my summer internship program. It was an adventure for me to work there. APPL provided a live project which was a part of the company's Business Expansion Strategy and my project guide supported me at each step for successful completion of this project. I learnt a lot about the operational and management aspects of Production, Procurement, Processing and Marketing of different spices during my project. I also got an opportunity to understand different approaches for captive raw material sourcing & some critical aspects of supply chain of different organizations which I covered during my field visit and to design a concept model of captive raw material sourcing of spices from North Eastern Region of India. Overall it was an encouraging and enriching experience.

-Hans Raj Palsania

Intern at Amalgamated Plantation Private Limited

'Two months': An interface between student life and work life left me with 'Sense of a Grown Individual'. ADM Agro Industries India Pvt. Ltd. entrusted me with the project which led into an incomparable window to gain the first-hand experience of surveying the farmers based on project-objectives, interacting the various stakeholders of the supply-chain and identifying the new procurement whereabouts. I covered six states in two months journey in order to gather exhaustive data and information for achieving a comprehensive inference.

'To learn things' was the only PRIME concern for my project guide. The work culture at ADM Agro Industries India Pvt. Ltd. was beyond my imagination. It was a kind of 'home away from home'.

-Kritee Priya

Intern at ADM Agro Industries India Pvt. Ltd.

I got an opportunity to be a part of E.I.DuPont Pvt. Ltd. as a summer intern. It was an enriching experience in terms of learning the formal culture of the corporate world yet in a friendly environment. Learning grass root facts of how a pesticide market works and most importantly to take decisions on your own to carry forward your project as you want, gave me immense confidence and a feeling of dedication. Overall it was my very first exposure to the corporate world, which brought a sense of greater responsibility which we will be confronting in the near future in the agri-business sector.
