FOREWORD

In Indian sub-continent, millet crops have its own significance in the dietary system from ancient times. They are considered as super grains for having reservoirs of nutrients. Consumer demand and dietary patterns are slowly changing and creating a potential market for these millets in the recent past. There is also a rising demand for value added products due to growing health consciousness among the consumers.

India has got a comparative advantage for export of millet and millet based products as very few countries are growing these crops. The demand for millets is increasing, not only in the domestic market but also in the international markets. The millets market globally is estimated at $9 billion in 2019 and is expected to reach $12.5 billion. India is the largest consumer and accounts for 38 per cent of global demand.

However, the potential of these crops is not harnessed to the fullest extent. Further, documentation of few minor millets is required in the wake of their nutritional value which is gaining importance in the recent days. Majority of the farmers face difficulties in managing high risk involved due to weather aberrations, uneven access to technologies, unreliable input supplies, erratic power supply, inadequate marketing arrangements etc. Under the present dispensation Value chain centric approach with emphasis on value addition and development of value added products from millets is need of the hour.

Agri start-ups can offer a better solution providing relevant and innovative solutions to a number of challenges faced all across the millet value chain. Realising the importance of support provided by these start-ups, millets value added products exhibitions was organized at the National Institute of Agricultural Extension (MANAGE), Hyderabad during the Rastiya Mahila Kisan Diwas on 15th October 2022. About 25 entrepreneurs attended and displayed their technology, value added products and the services which they are offering to the farmers for value chain management of millets.

Against this backdrop, to reduce the information gap and to assist these women millets entrepreneurs to give wide publicity to their company and their products, MANAGE has made efforts to compile the information on these women millets entrepreneurs which are supporting the farmers and has prepared a digital directory. I hope this directory will benefit Farmers to realise the dream of profitable Agriculture and millet product consumers to explore different delicious value added millets products.

Let me congratulate Dr. K. C. Gummagolmath, Director (M&E), Dr. Shridevi, MANAGE fellow (Agril. Extn.), and Mrs. Bammidi Ujjwala, Project assistant for preparing this digital directory.

Yours Sincerely

(P. Chandra Shekara)

Kukclean:

KuKClean, A Plant-Based Specialty Store delivers healthy, clean-label, super delicious handcrafted food products, as plant-based products are good for us, good for animals, and good for the planet.

Due to the difficulties in sourcing healthy, vegan food products in Bangalore, Kirti Yadav started KuKClean in July 2021. Being a certified holistic vegan nutritionist with 7+ years of experience in the food industry, she started out on the journey of exploring vegan food snacks and finding the best sources for them that she and her family could enjoy. While she discovered these conscious vendors she also developed in-house Clean-label food products that can solve the snacking problem in India. KuKClean focuses on products that are gluten-free, millets based to bring health and happiness to human beings and we do not use refined flour or refined sugar in any of our products.

KuKClean is on a mission to bring a PLATE-LEVEL CHANGE to 10 million people by 2025 by spreading awareness about Clean-Label, Plant based food products and delivering them to health-conscious customers.
